

OTTO & COMPANY is a strategy consultancy headquartered in Munich. We advise the top management of well-known international companies on strategic issues, organizational changes and process optimization in order to implement holistic transformations together with our customers.

For our location in Munich we are looking for:

Intern (f/m)

Are you studying at a prestigious university and are interested in strategy consulting? Then get to know us during an internship.

Who we are looking for: We are looking for employees who show ambition and enthusiasm. It is important that you convince us personally. You have already demonstrated your excellent social and communicative skills, your solution-oriented thinking and performing, as well as your analytical and structured thinking skills in previous internships. In addition, you are proficient in the use of standard Office programs and speak English and ideally a further foreign language fluently. Your international experience and initiative complete your profile.

What we offer: At OTTO&COMPANY you have the opportunity to prove and develop your skills in an international working environment. As an intern, you will quickly be given your own responsibilities and will be integrated directly into the project work as a full member of the team. This ensures a continuous learning process and further development.

About us: At OTTO & COMPANY, values are our top priority. Team spirit, commitment and trust are important criteria for working in small, highly motivated and creative teams in order to deliver promising results for our customers. Due to the close and collegial cooperation, humour and fun at work are not left behind, despite the results-oriented work ethic.
